CUEVA DEL PECADO

RIBERA DEL DUERO - ROBLE

"What is hinted at... is more seductive."

PRODUCER: Murviedro.

AROMA: Cueva del Pecado Roble unfolds a fresh and enveloping nose, where forest fruits and dark fruits slowly emerge, like a secret waiting to be revealed. The subtle oak aging reveals hints of roasted coffee, an aromatic whisper that hints at its brief but intense caress of wood. An aroma that doesn't impose itself: it invites.

TASTE: On the palate, it is round, powerful, and elegant, with the vibrancy of its youth and the depth imparted by the Tempranillo grape from Ribera del Duero. Its texture is fleshy, its progression seductive, and its freshness keeps the senses alert. The finish is persistent, leaving a trail that compels you to return for the next sip, like someone returning to an irresistible desire.

PAIRING RECOMMENDATIONS: Perfect with grilled meats, Iberian ham, rich pasta dishes, and aged cheeses. Its balance of freshness and body makes it a versatile companion for casual dinners or moments when pleasure is the priority.

SERVING TEMPERATURE: 14 - 16°C

Discover what lies hidden behind sin.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

PRODUCTION PROCESS: El Roble is made from 100% Tinta Fina grapes harvested at their optimal ripeness. In the winery, the bunches are sorted and gently destemmed to preserve the fruit's purity. Cold maceration for 48 hours awakens the freshest aromatic compounds, followed by a 7-day fermentation at 24–26 °C in 17,000 L truncated conical tanks. Malolactic fermentation, carried out on the lees with gentle bâtonnage, adds volume and a silky texture.

Finally, the wine rests for 6 months in French oak barrels, enough to hint at the wood without taking away the fruity essence that makes it so tempting.

WINEMAKING CHARACTERISTICS: Cherry red with violet highlights, as vibrant as the youth it embodies. On the nose, fresh black fruit dominates, intertwined with beautifully integrated toasty notes. On the palate, it is full-bodied, balanced, and silky, with the energy of a young wine and the elegance imparted by its brief aging. An Roble that doesn't just please: it awakens.

HISTORY: Cueva del Pecado is born on the riverbank where the land holds secrets and the grapes reveal them. It is the boldest expression of Murviedro's expertise: a seductive interpretation of Ribera del Duero, where tradition and desire coexist. A wine created for those who seek intense sensory experiences and find pleasure in the unexpected.
